

New East Lincoln Branch Library Now Open

Contributed

Lincoln County residents now have access to a modern, state-of-the art library in Iron Station right off Hwy 73. East Lincoln Branch Library officially opened its doors to the public on Monday, October 26, 2026 following a ribbon cutting ceremony.

Lincoln County Board of Commissioners, county staff, elected officials and community partners, joined community members during Grand Opening weekend.

“The community should be very proud of this beautiful building,” said Bud Cesena, Vice-Chair of the Lincoln County Board of Commissioners.

"Library staff worked dozens of hours to get this building ready for the public and I can't thank them enough," said Lincoln County Public Library Director Jennifer Sackett.

Located at 5124 NC-73, Iron Station, the newly opened space is 22,000 square feet and features open patios, work spaces, makerspace, community meeting room, study areas, digital areas for adults and children and will begin to add events to their calendar.

For more from the library including hours, and their monthly schedule check out the library's website.